

Founded in 1936, the Consorzio Cooperativo Produttori Latte Torre Pallavicina produces Grana Padano PDO in whole wheels and packaged in various sizes, as well as fresh cream for industrial use and food-grade whey with a workforce of around 20 employees.

In the awareness that business success depends on a responsible economic strategy in which quality, environmental protection, health and safety, and the efficient use of energy resources work together to maintain competitiveness and ensure business sustainability, the Consortium's management is committed to:

- implementing a management system that complies with the relevant international standards for the efficient use of energy and environmental protection, striving to provide adequate information and resources to achieve the set objectives.
- adhering to legal requirements and commitments in the energy field.
- using energy efficiently, by reducing waste and minimising the consumption impact associated with our activities, products and services.
- promoting the sourcing of energy-efficient products and services, consistent with our technical and investment possibilities.
- pursuing continuous improvement of the system and energy performance.
- assessing the implementation of the best viable technological options.
- monitoring performance and undertaking effective corrective action to address non-conformities and deviations from targets.
- maintaining operating profits to ensure the continuity of the business and the welfare of the people working in the company.

All the People working for the Consortium, each one according to their own activity, are called upon to contribute to the implementation of the principles set out in this Policy.

Its content is subject to periodic review to ensure that it continues to be representative of management's will and that it can guide business development.
